

Tri for the Cure

Jessica Sprague, Account Manager here at Info Cubic survived the Tri for the Cure on Sunday, August 7th. It was a beautiful day at Cherry Creek state park in Denver, Colorado. The event is a swim, bike, and run event to benefit the Denver Susan G. Komen foundation, and their fight against breast cancer.

Jumping into the lake for the open water swim portion was indeed the most intimidating especially after hearing horror stories of other's experiences. Jessica said "Once the swim was completed, I knew I could tackle the remaining biking and running." Second most nerve wracking were the signs posted "Beware of snakes on course." Her family was there to support her, including her Mom who is a breast cancer survivor.

It was a true inspiration for Jessica to be among 3,000 participants, quite a few who were cancer survivors. The camaraderie and support during the event was amazing. Jessica is planning on making this an annual event. Go Jess, and keep up the good work!
